We met at a park during high school and I remember thinking "damn he's cute!"

He had a girlfriend at the time.

I came across his senior portrait from my best friend and said, "damn he's really cute now I wanna meet him!"

I was curious and had her introduce me to him and we became good friends from that point on.

He was charming and quiet.

He didn't try to hit on me.

We'd meet for lunch/dinner/coffee, talk on the phone (for several hours), and go out to the club.

He was that friend I can call when my car won't start or I have a flat tire or when you need a drink.

I've always had a crush on him. There was an attraction.

After 15 years of friendship that attraction became romantic.

At this time he was single and ready to mingle!

I had received secret admire flowers on Valentine's Day and I didn't expect them from him but he was quick to confess they were from him.

Since then we've been together for 6 years and it's been the best years of my life!

He's the most loving, caring, and understanding partner that I can ever wish for.

There are 100 reasons I love him but I'll just name a few:

I love how he always finds the time to travel and discover new places together, even if it's just for one day. I love his adventurous spirit!

I love how he can make my day with just a simple text message in the morning.

I love that when we get into an argument, he always remembers to say "I'm sorry" and that means a lot!

I love how when I'm very tired and I fall asleep in the car and he keeps driving around so I can sleep.

I love that he loves our daughter Brianna unconditionally, Brianna loves Uncle Phi!

I love how he treats his family and friends with respect and kindness.

Last but not least, I love how he adores my obnoxious machine gun laugh, his acceptance of my craziness & flaws makes me feel beautiful inside & out.

I love how we always have fun even doing the little things like karaoke, dinner dates, picnic, hike, play tien len (Vietnamese card game) for shots & push-ups. There's no such thing as a boring time when we are around each other!
